Clicks But No Sales

Talking Head + Screen · Funnel diagnosis

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	E-commerce	FUNNEL

01 THE HOOK

“If your ad is getting clicks but nobody's buying, stop changing the ad.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“Your ads might be working fine. Your store might be the one losing the sale.”
“Before you kill that ad, check these three numbers.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

An online sale doesn't get lost just anywhere. It gets lost in one of three steps, and every step has its own number.

Step one: the click. If fewer than 1% of the people who see your ad click on it, then yes, the creative is the problem.

Step two: the product page. If lots of people land there but almost nobody adds to cart, the ad did its job. The page is what's failing: the photos, the price, the reviews or the offer.

Step three: checkout. If they add to cart and don't buy, there's almost always a surprise at the end. Shipping that costs more than expected is the number one reason people abandon a cart.

Find the step where the number drops and fix only that one. Changing the ad when the problem is checkout means paying for more traffic just to lose it in the same place.

At Maison Enterprises, this is the first thing we check, before we touch a single dollar of ad spend.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

How to read their funnel in three steps and know what to fix first.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word FUNNEL and we'll send you the sheet with the benchmark numbers for every step.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera, with a three-step funnel on screen: Click, Cart, Checkout. On each step its level lights up and the benchmark number appears big. On step three, a screen recording of a real checkout where the shipping cost shows up at the end and gets circled in red. Close on the sheet.

AI Won't Make You Go Viral

Talking Head + Screen · Content method

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	AI Content	HOOKS

01 THE HOOK

"You asked AI to write your content and it came out sounding like everyone else's. That's because you asked it the wrong thing."

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

"Stop asking ChatGPT for content ideas. Do this instead."

"How we write a hundred hooks in one afternoon with AI, without sounding like a robot."

02 CORE MESSAGE

AI doesn't know your customers. If you ask it for content ideas for your brand, it gives you the average of the internet. And the average doesn't stop anyone's scroll.

We do it the other way around: you bring the raw material, and AI multiplies it.

Step one: collect the 20 questions your customers ask you the most. In DMs, on sales calls, in the comments. Those are real words from people who buy.

Step two: give those questions to the AI and ask for five different hooks for each one. One direct, one with a number, one about a common mistake, one with a story and one that goes against the grain.

Step three: pick the best ones and record them with your own experience. AI brings the volume. You bring what nobody can copy.

That's how you go from not knowing what to post to a hundred hooks in one afternoon.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

A three-step method to use AI without their content sounding generic.

03 CALL TO ACTION

"DM us the word HOOKS and we'll send you the exact prompt we use with our clients."

DIRECTION NOTE

Open to camera. On step one, real screenshots of DMs and comments with questions (personal data blurred). On step two, a screen recording pasting the questions into the AI and the hooks appearing one by one. On step three, a quick cut to someone recording with the chosen hook on screen.

Stop Testing Ads. Test Hooks.

Talking Head + Screen · Testing method

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	Ads	TEST

01 THE HOOK

“Shooting ten different ads to see which one works is the most expensive way to advertise.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“One recording. Five ads. Here's how we test creative without burning budget.”
“Your ad isn't bad. Your first three seconds are.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Most people decide whether to stay or keep scrolling in the first three seconds. That's where almost everything is won or lost.

So instead of shooting ten ads, shoot one. One body with your best message, and five different openings.

You launch five versions: same video, five hooks. Since the only thing that changes is the start, you know exactly what worked.

The number you watch is the percentage of people who make it past three seconds. As a benchmark, above 25% you're doing well. Below 20%, that hook gets turned off.

You keep the winner, and the next week you record five new hooks to compete against it.

One recording, five tests, and every week your best ad gets a little better.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

How to test ads with a single recording and which number picks the winner.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word TEST and we'll send you the template we use to organize our hook tests.”

DIRECTION NOTE

Open with a fast montage: the five hooks back to back in under five seconds. Then to camera. When talking about the number, a screen recording of Ads Manager with the 3-second video plays column highlighted. Close on a five-bar chart where one bar wins.

Your Sales Team Has A Clock Problem

Talking Head · Speed to lead

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head	40-50 sec	Sales Teams	SPEED

01 THE HOOK

“Your sales team doesn't have a closing problem. It has a clock problem.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“You paid for that lead. Your team called it the next day.”
“The cheapest fix for your sales team takes five minutes.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

A lead who filled out your form five minutes ago is still thinking about you. One from five hours ago has already talked to your competitors, or forgot they filled anything out.

Studies on response time keep showing the same thing: your chances of reaching and qualifying a lead drop hard after the first few minutes.

What we set up with our clients is simple. The lead comes in, the rep gets an instant alert on their phone and calls in under five minutes.

If they don't pick up, a text goes out that same minute, followed by a follow-up sequence over the next few days. Most sales don't happen on the first attempt.

Before you ask your team to close better, measure how long it takes them to call. It's the cheapest fix you'll make all year.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

Why response time matters more than closing, and the system to respond in under five minutes.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word SPEED and we'll send you the follow-up sequence the sales teams we work with use.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera, direct tone. A stopwatch in one corner running from the hook. On “the lead comes in,” a real phone notification with the new lead. On “calls in under five minutes,” the stopwatch stops at 04:12 and turns green. Close on the follow-up sequence, day by day.

Nobody Buys Your 12 Modules

Talking Head + Screen · Offer structure

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	45-55 sec	B2C / B2B Programs	STRUCTURE

01 THE HOOK

“If your ad explains everything your program includes, that's exactly why it's not selling.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“Nobody has ever bought a program because of the bonus module.”
“The four-part order behind every program ad we write.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Twelve modules, three bonuses, group calls, a community. It's what took the most work to build, and what the buyer cares about the least.

People don't buy content. They buy getting from where they are to where they want to be, and the reason it'll work this time.

That's why every program ad we make follows the same order. One: the problem, in your customer's exact words. Two: why what they already tried didn't work.

Three: your method, explained in one sentence. Four: the proof, a real case with a concrete result.

The modules show up at the end, on the page or on the sales call. Never in the first few seconds.

And it works the same whether you sell to people or to companies. The problem changes, the order doesn't.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

The four-step order for selling a program without listing what's inside.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word STRUCTURE and we'll send you the full structure with a sample script already written.”

DIRECTION NOTE

Open with a long list of modules and bonuses on screen that gets crossed out on the hook. Then to camera, with each of the four steps appearing as a numbered card as it's said. On “the proof,” a real client result screenshot (with permission). Close on all four cards together.

You Don't Need More Traffic

Talking Head + Whiteboard · Profitability

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Whiteboard	45-55 sec	E-commerce	ORDER

01 THE HOOK

“Before you raise your ad budget, do this math.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“More traffic won't fix a store that loses money on every sale.”

“The number that decides if you can scale your store, and it's not ROAS.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Let's say every sale costs you 30 dollars in ads and your average order is 40. After product and shipping, there's almost nothing left. Raising the budget just multiplies that problem.

Now raise your average order to 55. Same ad, same cost per sale, and suddenly every customer leaves you a profit.

Three ways to do it this week. One: bundles. Group the products people already buy together and price them so it's a better deal than buying them separately.

Two: free shipping starting just above your average order. If your average order is 40, free shipping starts at 50.

Three: an offer right after checkout. The customer already entered their card, so adding one more product is a single click.

More traffic grows a business that already works. A bigger order value fixes one that doesn't yet.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

The math to do before scaling, and three ways to raise average order value.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word ORDER and we'll send you the calculator to see how much you can pay per sale and still make money.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera next to a whiteboard, or with animated numbers on screen. The 30 vs. 40 math in red, the 30 vs. 55 math in green. On each of the three ways, a screen recording of a real store: a bundle, the “you're 10 dollars away from free shipping” bar and the post-purchase offer.

Your Creative Is Your Targeting

Talking Head + Screen · How Meta works now

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	Ads	TARGET

01 THE HOOK

“You're still picking interests in your ads like it's 2019. Meta stopped working that way.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“The best audience for your ad isn't in the targeting settings anymore.”
“Why the same budget gets you better customers with broad targeting.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Today Meta decides who sees your ad mostly by looking at who stops, watches and clicks on it. Your interest list matters a lot less than you think.

That means your video is your targeting. Whoever you talk to in the first three seconds is who Meta goes out and finds.

So if you sell to three types of customer, don't build three audiences. Make three videos.

One for the busy mom, one for the business owner, one for the beginner. Each one calls out its person in the first line, with their problem and their words.

Launch them with broad targeting and let the algorithm do what it does best: find more people like the ones who are already watching.

Fewer audiences, more creatives. That's the shift that's working for our clients right now.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

Why the creative now does the targeting, and how to make one video per customer type.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word TARGET and we'll send you the worksheet we use to turn every customer type into a hook.”

DIRECTION NOTE

Open with a screen recording of the old interest-targeting menu getting crossed out. To camera, then three phone mock-ups side by side, each with a different hook calling out its customer. On “broad targeting,” the audience settings left open, with a dot-map spreading out from those three videos.

The AI Ad That Cost Zero To Shoot

Talking Head + Screen · Myth vs. truth

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	AI Content	AIVIDEO

01 THE HOOK

“This product video cost us zero dollars to shoot. Here's when that's smart, and when it'll wreck your brand.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“AI ads work. Just not the way most brands are using them.”

“Should you make your ads with AI? Here's our honest answer.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

AI can now create product shots, scenes and full videos without a studio. And used well, it's a huge advantage.

Where it works: testing. Ten backgrounds, ten scenes, ten angles for your product in one afternoon, so you find out what sells before you spend on a real shoot.

Where it doesn't: anything that pretends to be real. A fake customer giving a fake review isn't content, it's a lie. And people can tell faster than you think.

Our rule is simple. AI for the product, the scenes and the volume. Real people for the testimonials and the face of the brand.

And once you find a winner with AI, that's the one worth shooting for real.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

Where AI-made ads help, where they hurt, and the rule for using both.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word AIVIDEO and we'll send you the list of AI tools we use for product content.”

DIRECTION NOTE

Open on a finished AI product video, then reveal it's AI with a “behind the scenes” split: the prompt on one side, the result on the other. On “where it works,” a grid of ten variations of the same product. On “where it doesn't,” a fake-looking AI testimonial with a red X. Close to camera.

They Visited. They Left. Now What?

Talking Head + Screen · Retargeting

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	E-commerce	BACK

01 THE HOOK

“Most people who visit your store leave without buying. Showing them the same ad again is the mistake.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“The people who almost bought from you are your cheapest customers. Here's how to bring them back.”
“Someone visited your store yesterday and left. Here's what they should see today.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Someone who visited your store already knows what you sell. Showing them the same ad that brought them in tells them nothing new.

They left for a reason. Doubt about quality, the price, shipping, or they just got distracted.

So the ads they see afterwards need to answer that reason. One ad with real reviews. One that answers the most common question. One with an offer that expires.

And split by how close they got. Whoever only saw the product gets reviews. Whoever left something in the cart gets the reminder and the offer.

Ads to new people bring them in. Ads to people who already visited close the sale. They're two different jobs.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

Why retargeting needs different ads, and what to show depending on how close they got.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word BACK and we'll send you the three retargeting ads we set up for every store we work with.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera. On “they left for a reason,” four doubt bubbles pop up around the head: quality, price, shipping, distraction. On the three ads, three phone mock-ups appearing one by one: reviews, FAQ answer, offer with a countdown. On “split by how close they got,” a two-step ladder: Viewed product, Added to cart.

Booked Calls That Never Show Up

Talking Head · Show-up rate

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head	40-50 sec	Sales Teams	SHOWUP

01 THE HOOK

“If people book a call with your team and don't show up, the problem started the second they booked.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“You're paying for calls your closers never get to take.”

“Three messages that get more people to show up to your sales calls.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

A no-show isn't someone who changed their mind on the day. It's someone who forgot why they booked.

Between the booking and the call there are hours, sometimes days. If nothing happens in that gap, the interest goes cold.

Here's what we set up. Right after booking: a short video from the person who will take the call, saying their name and what they'll go over together.

The day before: a real result from a client in a situation like theirs. One hour before: a personal text from the closer, not a robot.

Every message reminds them why they booked. A higher show-up rate is more sales without spending another dollar on ads.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

Why people don't show up to calls, and the three messages that fix it.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word SHOWUP and we'll send you the exact messages for each step.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera. On “the gap,” a timeline on screen from Booked to Call with an empty space that grows. On each message, a real phone mock-up arriving: the video message, the client result, the text from the closer. Close on a calendar where more slots turn green.

Three Emails That Sell While You Sleep

Talking Head + Screen	40-50 sec	E-commerce	FLOWS

01 THE HOOK

"If your store doesn't have these three automatic emails, you're paying for customers and letting them walk away."

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

"The cheapest sale in your store is the one you get from a customer you already have."
"Set these up once and they sell every single day."

02 CORE MESSAGE

You pay to bring every customer in. These three emails make sure you don't pay twice.

One: abandoned cart. Someone left a product in their cart, you remind them within the hour, and again the next day with the reviews of that product.

Two: after the purchase. Thank them, show them how to get the most out of what they bought, and a few days later suggest the product that goes with it.

Three: win-back. If a customer hasn't bought in a couple of months, a message to bring them back, with a reason to come back now.

You set them up once, and they work every day without you. In many stores, these emails end up being a big part of the monthly sales.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

The three automatic emails every store needs, and what goes in each one.

03 CALL TO ACTION

"DM us the word FLOWS and we'll send you the templates for all three emails, ready to adapt."

Steal Your Best Closer's Words With AI

Talking Head + Screen · AI for sales

FORMAT	LENGTH	PILLAR	DM KEYWORD
Talking Head + Screen	45-55 sec	Sales Teams + AI	CALLS

01 THE HOOK

“Your best salesperson is closing with words nobody else on your team knows. Here's how to steal them with AI.”

ALTERNATE HOOKS · SAME VIDEO, TEST THE FIRST 3 SECONDS

“You have hundreds of hours of sales calls recorded. Nobody's using them.”
“The sales training your team needs is already sitting in your call recordings.”

02 CORE MESSAGE

Every team has one closer who just closes more. And when you ask how, they say: I don't know, I just talk to them.

The answer is in the recordings. Take their last ten calls that closed and get the transcripts.

Give them to the AI and ask three things. Which objections came up the most. Exactly what they said to answer each one. And which questions they asked before giving the price.

In an hour you have an objection playbook in your best closer's own words, and the whole team can use it on tomorrow's calls.

And bonus: those same objections are your next videos. If one person asked it on a call, a thousand people are wondering the same thing.

WHAT THE VIEWER TAKES AWAY

How to turn sales call recordings into an objection playbook with AI.

03 CALL TO ACTION

“DM us the word CALLS and we'll send you the prompt we use to analyze sales calls.”

DIRECTION NOTE

To camera. On “the answer is in the recordings,” a screen recording of a folder of call files. On the three questions, the AI chat with transcripts pasted in and the answers being written. Close on a clean one-page objection playbook (Objection, What they said), with one line highlighted.
