01 HOOK · 0-2 S

“I speak four languages. Watch me order one coffee in all of them.”

EN PANTALLA: 1 SENTENCE · 4 LANGUAGES

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“One sentence. Four languages. Try to keep up.”
“This is what my brain sounds like on a normal Tuesday.”

02 CUERPO

[en español] Quiero un café, por favor, pero que sea grande.

[in English] I want a coffee, please, but make it a big one.

[en français] Je voudrais un café, s'il vous plaît, mais un grand.

[in italiano] Vorrei un caffè, per favore, ma grande.

Okay, now listen to how much they look alike. Café, coffee, café, caffè.

Once you've got one of them, the next one's half done.

01 HOOK · 0-2 S

“Stop asking Italians for donkey. Burro means butter.”

EN PANTALLA: SAME WORD · DIFFERENT MEANING

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“Three words that'll get you in trouble in three countries.”
“Learning a second language makes you dangerous in the third one.”

02 CUERPO

'Burro.' In Spanish it's a donkey. In Italian it's butter. So yes, in Rome I asked for donkey on my bread.

'Caldo.' In Spanish it's soup. In Italian it means hot. Very different when you're touching a plate.

And 'salir.' In Spanish, to go out. In French, 'salir' means to get something dirty.

So, 'quiero salir contigo' in Spanish: I want to go out with you. Try that one in French and good luck.

Fitted stacked captions	25-35 s	#2 Negative Command	—

01 HOOK · 0-2 S

“Stop saying 'estoy embarazada' when you're embarrassed. You're telling people you're pregnant.”

EN PANTALLA: EMBARAZADA ≠ EMBARRASSED

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“Four Spanish words that look like English and will absolutely betray you.”
“If you learned Spanish from cognates, I'm sorry, this one's on me.”

02 CUERPO

Embarrassed is 'me da vergüenza'. Embarazada means pregnant. Big difference at a family dinner.

'Estoy caliente' does not mean I'm hot because it's summer. Say 'tengo calor'. Trust me.

'Actualmente' means currently. Actually is 'en realidad'.

And 'realizar' isn't to realize. If you realized something, 'me di cuenta'.

Save this before your trip. Future you says thanks.

03 TEXTO EN PANTALLA

Argentina Will Humble Your School Spanish

EDICIÓN	DURACIÓN	FÓRMULA	KEYWORD
Cutout backdrop	25-35 s	#14 The Callout	—

01 HOOK · 0-2 S

“Your Spanish teacher lied to you about Argentina.”

EN PANTALLA: SCHOOL SPANISH vs ARGENTINA

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“Argentina will destroy your school Spanish in four seconds.”
“Your Spanish teacher never warned you about us.”

02 CUERPO

You learned 'yo me llamo'. We say 'sho me shamo'. The 'll' and the 'y' turn into 'sh'.

You learned 'tú tienes'. We say 'vos tenés'. Different word, different verb ending.

Then there's 'che'. Means hey. We use it like forty times a day.

And 're'. 'Re lindo', 're cansado'. It just means very.

So if you can't understand us, that's normal. Give it a week of Argentine series and you'll get there.

03 TEXTO EN PANTALLA

“Which version of me you get depends on the language.”

02 CUERPO

In Spanish I'm loud. I interrupt. I talk with my hands.

In English I'm calmer, more direct. {{¿cómo sos de verdad en inglés?}}

French me is way more polite than I actually am. {{ajustá}}

Italian me is basically Spanish me, but singing. {{ajustá}}

EN PANTALLA: 🇪🇸 vs 🇫🇷

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“French is harder than Spanish. I speak both, it's not close.”
“Which language should you learn first? I speak four. Here's my answer.”

02 CUERPO

French: you write 'eau' and you say 'o'. Half the letters are just there for decoration.

Spanish: you say it the way it's written. Five vowels, they never change.

French has like sixteen vowel sounds. Spanish has five.

Plus, if you're in the US, you hear Spanish basically everywhere. Free practice, every day.

French is beautiful. I love it. But if you want to talk to people in three months, start with Spanish.

“I'm going to say something about Duolingo and the owl is going to find me.”

02 CUERPO

Duolingo is amazing at getting you to open the app every day. That part's real.

But tapping words on a screen doesn't train your mouth, and it doesn't train your ears for people talking fast.

So keep the streak. Just give it a new job. Five minutes as a warm up.

01 HOOK · 0-2 S

“Ninety days to your first real conversation. Here's the plan.”

EN PANTALLA: 0 → CONVERSATION · 90 DAYS

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“I learned three languages. This is the order I wish I'd done it in.”
“Ninety days, one hour a day. Here's the plan.”

02 CUERPO

Quick reality check. In ninety days you won't be fluent. You'll be able to have a real, simple conversation. That's the goal.

Days 1 to 30: sounds and the most common words. Flashcards, twenty minutes. Easy videos made for learners, twenty more.

Days 31 to 60: you start talking. A tutor online, two or three times a week. It's going to feel awful. Good, that's the point.

Days 61 to 90: conversations. Three a week. Shows in the language with subtitles in the language.

And write down the ten mistakes you make the most. Fix only those.

One hour a day. That's ninety hours. Most people never get there in four years of school.

Twenty minutes: listening. Something I'd watch anyway, just in the language.

Ten minutes: shadowing. I pause and repeat what they said, same speed, same tone, like a parrot.

EN PANTALLA: HOW LONG UNTIL FLUENT?

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“Everyone lies to you about how long it takes to learn a language.”
“'How long until I'm fluent?' I get this every week. Honest answer.”

02 CUERPO

The US government trains diplomats in languages. For an English speaker, they estimate Spanish, French or Italian at around 600 to 750 hours of class.

That's for professional level. Not just 'I can survive'.

One hour a day, that's around a year and a half. Two hours a day, under a year.

But you're having real conversations way before that. Usually somewhere around 100 to 200 hours.

So stop counting months. Count the hours you're actually putting in.

EN PANTALLA: 'TOO OLD TO LEARN?'

HOOKS ALTERNATIVOS

“Thirty, forty, sixty. Doesn't matter. Here's what does.”

02 CUERPO

The half that's true: if you start as an adult, you'll probably keep a bit of an accent. That's fine. I have one in every language except Spanish.

The half that's not: adults actually learn faster at the start. You can read, you can use apps, you understand grammar when someone explains it.

Kids win because they get thousands of hours and nobody judges them for mistakes.

Historias

Lunes: encuesta 'Which language are you learning?' → con eso decidís el contenido de la semana.

Miércoles: pregunta abierta 'Ask me how to say anything in 4 languages' → respondés con audio.

Viernes: 'Comment ROADMAP' con link sticker al PDF o keyword a DM.

Todos los días del reto: tu progreso (BOFU puro, construye comunidad).
