

NATE VELAZQUEZ · @_NATEVELAZQUEZ

Content Calendar

7 scripts. Built for reach, not just leads.

TARGET — Busy adults 30+ who've tried restrictive diets and want a sustainable way to eat

STYLE — Visual, surprising, real. Things people stop scrolling for, not another coach tip.

FORMAT — 20-45 sec · Experiments, skits, real life & hot takes · Instagram Reels

SCRIPTS IN THIS DOCUMENT

01	Same Calories. Two Very Different Plates.	EXPERIMENT	Mon · Week 2
02	"Eat Clean" Is The Worst Advice On The Internet	HOT TAKE	Tue · Week 2
03	What I Eat On A Bad Day As A Nutrition Coach	REAL LIFE	Wed · Week 2
04	I Asked People To Pour One Tablespoon Of Peanut Butter	EXPERIMENT	Thu · Week 2
05	The Diet Voice vs. Your Coach At A Birthday Party	SKIT	Fri · Week 2
06	Things I'll Never Do As A Nutrition Coach	LIST	Sat · Week 2
07	Who I Won't Coach	SOFT OFFER	Sun · Week 2

VIDEO SCRIPT

Same Calories. Two Very Different Plates.

Visual experiment

FORMAT	LENGTH	ON-SCREEN TEXT	GOAL
Table-top demo	20-30 sec	SAME CALORIES ↓	Shares + saves

01 THE HOOK

“These two plates have the exact same calories. Only one of them keeps you full until 3pm.”

02 THE BEATS

Left: a blueberry muffin and a vanilla latte. Gone in four minutes. Hungry again by 10.

Right: eggs, toast, a pile of fruit, Greek yogurt, and a chicken sausage. Same number. You'll struggle to finish it.

Your stomach doesn't count calories. It counts volume and protein. That's the whole trick.

Nobody's telling you to never eat the muffin. Just know what you're trading when you do.

03 THE ENDING

Slide the muffin plate off frame. End on the full plate, no words. Let people rewatch to compare.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Weigh every food and put the real calorie number on each plate on screen; adjust portions until they truly match. Overhead or 45° angle, clean table, good light. The visual does 80% of the work, keep talking to a minimum.

VIDEO SCRIPT

"Eat Clean" Is The Worst Advice On The Internet

Unpopular opinion

FORMAT	LENGTH	ON-SCREEN TEXT	GOAL
Talking Head	25-35 sec	UNPOPULAR OPINION	Comments

01 THE HOOK

"Unpopular opinion from a nutrition coach: "eat clean" is the worst advice on the internet."

02 THE BEATS

Nobody can tell you what it actually means. Is bread clean? Pasta? A burger you made at home?

What it really does is split food into good and bad. And once a food is "bad," eating it doesn't feel like a meal. It feels like failing.

That's how one cookie turns into the whole sleeve. Not hunger. Guilt.

Food isn't clean or dirty. It's more filling or less filling, more protein or less. That's it. Everything else is marketing.

03 THE ENDING

"Change my mind." Then stop. People will try in the comments.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Say the hook straight into the lens with a half-smile, like you know you're about to start something. Reply to the best comments with video replies, that's where the second wave of views comes from.

VIDEO SCRIPT

What I Eat On A Bad Day As A Nutrition Coach

Day-in-the-life, flipped

FORMAT	LENGTH	ON-SCREEN TEXT	GOAL
Vlog · quick cuts	35-45 sec	NOT A PERFECT DAY	Watch time + follows

01

THE HOOK

"Everyone shows you their perfect day of eating. Here's my bad one."

02

THE BEATS

Overslept. Coffee in the car, a protein shake I found in the gym bag. Not cute.

Lunch is a gas station: a turkey sandwich, a cheese stick, a banana. Fine.

3pm, back-to-back calls, I grab a handful of whatever's in the office. Happens.

Dinner at 8:30. Frozen stir-fry and microwave rice. Ten minutes.

Not perfect. But every meal had something that kept me full, and nothing turned into a free-for-all. That's the real skill. Not the perfect days. The bad ones.

03

THE ENDING

Last clip: you eating dinner on the couch. "That's it. That's the secret."

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Film it on a genuinely busy day, real locations, phone in hand, no polish. Cut every 2-3 seconds. Honesty is the hook here: the less staged it looks, the better it performs.

VIDEO SCRIPT

I Asked People To Pour One Tablespoon Of Peanut Butter

Street / home experiment

FORMAT	LENGTH	ON-SCREEN TEXT	GOAL
Interactive challenge	25-35 sec	POUR 1 TBSP	Shares

01

THE HOOK

"I asked three people to pour one tablespoon of peanut butter. Nobody got close."

02

THE BEATS

Person one: two and a half tablespoons. Person two: almost three. Person three just laughed.

A real, level tablespoon is around 90 to 100 calories. What most people call "a spoonful" is two or three times that.

Peanut butter isn't the problem. Eyeballing it every day for a year is.

You don't need to measure forever. Just do it once, so your eyes learn what one actually looks like.

03

THE ENDING

Hand the jar to the camera: "Your turn."

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Use friends, family or gym regulars (get their OK to post). Show the measuring spoon reveal on a kitchen scale for each person, the gap is the punchline. Keep reactions in, they're the reason people share it.

VIDEO SCRIPT

The Diet Voice vs. Your Coach At A Birthday Party

Two-character skit

FORMAT	LENGTH	ON-SCREEN TEXT	GOAL
Skit · you play both	25-35 sec	DIET VOICE vs. COACH	Shares + tags

01 THE HOOK

"The voice in your head at a birthday party vs. what I'd actually tell you."

02 THE BEATS

DIET VOICE: "Don't touch the cake. You already had pizza. Today's ruined anyway, so just go for it."

COACH: "Have the slice. Sit down, enjoy it, talk to people."

DIET VOICE: "But what about tomorrow?"

COACH: "Tomorrow you eat breakfast like normal. That's it. One slice of cake never ruined anyone. The 'I already ruined it' part does."

03 THE ENDING

Diet voice takes a bite, shrugs: "...okay this is good." Cut.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Change one detail per character (hat, hoodie, side of the frame) so it reads instantly with no sound. Captions on screen are a must. Have fun with it, this is the one that shows your personality.

VIDEO SCRIPT

Things I'll Never Do As A Nutrition Coach

Fast-cut list

FORMAT

Quick cuts · on-screen text

LENGTH

20-30 sec

ON-SCREEN TEXT

I'LL NEVER...

GOAL

Saves + comments

01 THE HOOK

"Things I'll never do as a nutrition coach. Number four surprises people."

02 THE BEATS

One: skip breakfast to "save calories" for a big dinner.

Two: buy anything that says "guilt-free" on the label.

Three: drink my calories without noticing. Looking at you, caramel cold brew.

Four: weigh myself the morning after a vacation. That number lies for about a week.

Five: eat dinner standing over the kitchen counter.

03 THE ENDING

"Which one are you guilty of? Number in the comments."

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

One cut per item, a quick visual for each (empty plate, label close-up, the coffee, a scale with a towel thrown over it, the counter). On-screen number for each one. Fast and punchy, the whole thing should feel like 15 seconds.

VIDEO SCRIPT

Who I Won't Coach

Reverse pitch

FORMAT

Talking Head

LENGTH

30-40 sec

ON-SCREEN TEXT

I WON'T COACH YOU
IF...

DM KEYWORD

FIT

01 THE HOOK

"I only take ten new clients a month. So here's who I'm not taking."

02 THE BEATS

If you want to lose twenty pounds by your vacation next week, I'm not your guy.

If you want a meal plan you'll follow for three days and throw away, there are free ones online.

If you think you have to give up pizza forever to get results, I'll spend twelve weeks proving you wrong. But you have to let me.

But if you're busy, you're tired of starting over, and you want something that actually fits your life... that's exactly who I built this for.

03 CALL TO ACTION

"If that's you, DM me FIT."

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Calm and a little blunt, not arrogant. Disqualifying people makes the right ones lean in. This is the only video this week with a call to action: keep it soft, one line, then stop.